

whether you're

gay,

straight, or anything else under the rainbow

know that the Admissions Committee and your interviewers are interested in you. The real person. The whole person. This is a safe space to tell us your story, if you want. If not, that's fine too. Just feel comfortable here. We do!

Stanford has a non-discrimination policy which includes sexual orientation. It provides domestic partner benefits (for students, too!), and openly gay, lesbian, bisexual, and transgender students, staff, and professors.

Visit http://med.stanford.edu/md/admissions/non\_discrimination.html

LGBT-Meds

LGBT-Meds is a group of lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender medical students and their straight friends and allies. We work to provide a safe and open environment for queer individuals in the health care setting and to promote awareness of queer health issues. LGBT-Meds sponsors the Queer Health and Medicine Lecture Series and is actively working to ever increase the positive image of Stanford School of Medicine as an accepting environment for queer medical students and faculty.

Contact Information:

Email: lgbt-medical-owner@lists.stanford.edu

See our website at <http://lgbtmeds.stanford.edu>

Current Projects

- Curriculum Reform and Political Action
  - Integrating queer health into the required preclinical and clinical curriculum.
  - Challenging provider attitudes and heterosexist assumptions in current practice
  - Raise awareness on issues facing queer individuals on a local and national level.
  - Empower ourselves as future physicians in our role in shaping public opinion about queer individuals, groups and families.
- Admissions and Community
  - Increase visibility of LGBT-Meds to applicants and accepted medical students.
  - Provide applicant students this resource to find out about the queer friendly atmosphere at the medical school.
  - Promote community through social events throughout the academic year.